He will be the operating officer of the Southern Pacific system and will have his headquarters in San Francisco. The financial affairs and general policy of the company will be under the supervision of the directors in this city with Mr Charles H. Tweed as chairman. The selection of Mr Hays as Colis P. Huntington's successor has not been unexpected, although at the first public suggestion of it Mr. Hays denied that he contemplated making any change. Inducements of an unusually liberal character, it is said, caused him to change his mind. Mr. Hays is rated by railroad men as one of the best operating executives of the present time. He made a conspicuous reputation as general manager of the Wabash Railroad and more recently his success as general road and more recently his success as genera manager of the Grand Trunk has been very pronounced manager of the Grand Trunk has been very pronounced. He was born in Rock Island, Ill., May 16, 1856; entered railroad service in 1873, and for four years filled subordinate posts on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad. In 1877 he became secretary to the general manager of the Missouri Pacific. Subsequently he held a similar post with the Wabash Railroad, and in 1889 he became general manager of the Wabash system. Four years later he was elected vice-president, from which office he was called, at a large salary, to the general managership of the Grand Trunk under President Sir Charles Rivers Wilson. He has been credited with having brought the Grand Trunk out of financial distress into financial prosperity. tress into financial prosperity.

There will be little if any change in the present executive staff of the Southern Pacific company. The general policy that characterized Mr. Huntington's management, it is terized Mr. Huntington's management, it is asserted, will not be changed materially. Reports that W. K. Vanderbilt has obtained, or is seeking to obtain, control of the Southern Pacific Railroad are explicitly decided by all parties in interest, and such reports have received no credence among railroad men and financiers.

PUNCHED BY PRESIDENT HOMER LEE. Bank Note Company's Secretary Looked for Fight and Got All He Wanted.

Homer Lee of 553 West End avenue and Michael Tanner of 1114 Gates avenue, Brook-President and Secretary respectively of the Franklin-Lee Bank Note Company, had a lively scrimmage in the office of the company at 67 Duane street late on Thursday afternoon, and Tanner came out a very bad second. When he was arraigned in the Centre street police court yesterday morning he presented a sorry spectacle. His left eye was in the deepest mourning and so swollen that he could not see out of it at all. A gash about an inch long in his forehead had bled so profusely that his shirt front and waistcoat were saturated with blood. His collar was gone, his necktie askew and his clothes were torn and covered with dirt. Altogether he looked as if he had askew and his clothes were torn and covered with dirt. Altogether he looked as if he had been fighting with a threshing machine. But it was only Mr. Lee who had done the damage. Lee is more than six feet high and an athlete. Tanner is of medium height, but stockliy built. Tanner was employed by the Franklin-Lee Bank Note Company as secretary at a salary of $27 a week. He held a few shares of stock of the concern to make him eligible for the place. Incidentally he has been collecting rents for Mrs. Lee.

He had not been prompt in turning over the proceeds of his collections, according to Mr. Lee, and lately he lost a lawsuit Mr. Lee brought against him. After that he went for two or three days on a roaring spree, and when he went into the office of the bank note company on Thursday afternoon he was in a mood and condition to make trouble for anybody. Mr. Lee was not in a josing mood either and soon took Tanner to task about the manner in which he had been looking after Mrs. Lee's business. Tanner took offence and made a lead for Lee. The result Tanner's appearance later showed best.

Mr. Lee went out for a while to find a policeman. While he was gone lanner proceeded to do up the office furniture. He overturned desks, broke chairs and wought general havoc. Then he gathered up a lot of Mr. Lee's private papers, including some photographs of Mrs. Lee's houses, and walked out through the door, but into the arms of Policeman Sullivan of the Broadway squad. He was locked up for the night in the Macdouzal street station.

In court yesterday Tanner promised Magistrate Flammer that he would not go near the offices of the bank note company if he were allowed to go, in the custody of his counsel, John Hoyer, pending an examination. He made no charge of assault against Mr. Lee and with the understanding that he would not be charged with larceny, turned over to him the papers he had taken from the office. It is understood that the charge against Tanner will not be pressed. not be pressed.

GRAIN FREIGHTS TO BE RAISED. The Announcement Excites Protest From Those in the Local Grain Trade.

Frank Harriott, the grain agent representing all the railroads that carry grain from Buffalo to New York, announced yesterday that no be made between the present time and Nov. 1. owing to lack of cars. On and after the date one cent a bushel, making the rate on wheat four cents a bushel.

These announcements created agitation in the local grain trade ; e-terday and there was much complaint regarding them. It was asserted that business had been seriously up-set by the unexpected advance in rates and the set by the unexpected advance in rates and the refusal of shipments.

Formerly rates on grain shipped from Buffalo to New York were liable to radical cuts and the rate situation was often badly demoralized, but since the appointment six months ago of Mr. Harriott as the exent of the railroads represented in the New York Grain Committee the situation has been brought under rigorous control. Allegations were made yesterday that owing to the existence of the Grain Committee individual quotations could not be secured from the different railroads and that shippers no longer had the privilege of selecting the route over which their grain could be moved.

WHY GREENWICH WOMEN WILL VOTE. They Intend to Protect Miss Lockwood, the SOUND BEACH, Conn., Oct. 26.-All this week women from this district of the town of Greenwich have been journeying to the court in Greenwich and taking the elector's oath before the Selectmen, Town Clerk and Registrars of Voters. They have told their ages, swore to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States, have read extracts from the Constitution and taken an oath to vote as their conscience dictates without regard to party. The sacrifices of so doing have been many, especially in regard to their ages, but they have resolved to take the step in order to prohave resolved to take the step in order to protect the rights of one of their number, Miss F. Ida Lockwood, teacher in the public school. In Connecticut women are made voters the same as men, but are only permitted to vote on matters pertaining to education.

In Sound Beach the past year or so all the matters of public interest have been about the school, and the women found themselves handicapped by not being able to vote. They used their influence with the men, however, and had Miss Lockwood reinstated as teacher of the primary grade against the wishes of the School Committee, Gilbert Ferris, William Worel and Charles Palmer. The committee refused to resign at the time, although public sentiment was against them.

CARRIED OFF HER OWN CHILDREN. Divorced Woman Takes Boy and Girl From School and Disappears.

Jamaica, L. I., Oct. 28.-Mrs. Ida Kassmer went to public school No. 47 in Hillside avenue in this village this afternoon and carried off her two children, William Kassmer, 10 years old, and Mabel Kassmer, 8, who had been taken from her by an order of the Court. Her husband. William Kassmer, got an absolute divorce from her some time ago, and the Court placed the children in the custody of their grandfather, who lives near the school.

The children attended the classes taught by Miss Brainard and Miss Ullmer. Without suspecting anything wrong, the teachers turned the little ones over to their mother, who wept over them and covered them with kisses. Hastily putting on their wraps, she took them from the building and disappeared. It was not until the children failed to return from school that the Kassmer family found out that they had been taken away by their mother. The grandfather visited the police station and a general alarm was sent out to arrest the woman for kidnapping. She is described as 30 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall, lame in left leg, right arm disabled and dark complexion. Her lameness is not very noticeable and she has a rather handsome face. The Kassmer family said to-night they had absolutely no clue to the woman's whereabouts.

When Kassmer suspected his wife of wrong-doing he hired a bartender to act as detective and to get evidence against her. When the suit came up for trial the bartender was named as one of the corespondents. by Miss Brainard and Miss Ullmer. Without cruits and a fight followed. The provost guard arrived in time to drive the men into the reservation, but about 3 o'clock Thursday morning the fight is said to have been renewed inside the reservation.

Col John I Rodgers, the commandant of the fort, admitted yesterday that there had been a disturbance at the Dewy House, but said he knew of no fight within the reservation. The absence of the usual crowd of soldiers in the streets and saloons outside the reservation on Thursday and yesterday gave credence, however, to the rumor that the men's liberty had been restricted on account of the fights on Wednesday night and early Thursday morning. Col Hodgers denied that the men had been restricted, but he acknowledged that the guard had been increased and that the provost guard was watching for any men who did not have proper leave of absence.

PINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY, Oct. 26. Dealings in stocks to-day were again large The movement of prices was somewhat irregular, but weakness was not disclosed. There was selling in many stocks for the purpose of taking profits, but the stocks that were offered were absorbed with a degree of readiness that indicated the existence of a buying power independent of the professional ele ment in speculation. The situation as a whole is pronounced as favorable as at any time There is no room for doubt as to the result f the election, and, accordingly, a continuance of the wonderful prosperity of the country is insured. The only matter as to which any uncertainty is felt is money. Money ought not to tighten, even with an increase in the demand. The outgo of money to the interior is nearly at an end and a return flow will set in before long. In the meantime, gold is coming to this country in large amounts from Europe, Australia, the Klondike and elsewhere For another thing, there is a constant growth in national bank circulation, so that altogether there is a promise of an abundant supply of funds, no matter how extensive the needs of Wall Street may become.

The bank statement to-morrow is expected to show a considerable loss in cash, but, as a fact, the banks at the close of business to-day were something like $3,000,000 better off in cash than they were at the same time last week Checks arrived to-day for $4,000,000 Australian gold received at San Francisco and deposited in the Mint there. Gold was delivered for these checks by the New York Sub-Treasury. Aside from this transaction, the banks, as nearly as could be ascertained, sustained a net loss in cash of a little more than $1,000,000 in the week. To-morrow's bank statement, by reason of the average system employed in making it up, will be misleading in the item of cash. In other features, however, it will be interesting, if not important. In spite of the large transactions in stocks, it is not improbable that a further contraction in loans will be reported with an accompanying decrease in de-Notwithstanding that call loans made to-day hold good until Monday and that the requirements for money were not small, the rate for accommodation sank from 414 per cent, at the opening to 2 per cent. at the close. Sterling exchange tended toward ease. There was decline of one-eighth cent in sight bills, which was taken to foreshadow additional engagements of gold for import. The supply of grain and cotton bills was of about the same pro-portions as for some time past. There is now on the way to New York from Europe in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 of gold, all of which will be in the possession of the banks before the end of another week. Prices for a mafority of stocks pursued a downward course and there was a lack of animation in the trading until the last hour, when a new and lively demand for stocks sprang up, with a rapid recovery in values. In numerous instances not only were the earlier losses made up, but comparing concluding prices with those of yesterday, substantial gains were recorded. There were few stocks that finally showed more than fractional declines. Missouri Pacific was a conspicuous feature of the market. It was for an amalgamation of all the so-called Gould roads in the Southwest on terms particularly advantageous to the Missouri Pacific. Another story was that divdends on Missouri Pacific stock were about to be resumed. The Chicago and Alton issues received considerable attention. The preferred stock was conspicuously strong. Other active railroad stocks were Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Atchison, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio and Reading first preferred. A report of a change were various stories afloat regarding the property. One was that a scheme had been matured

Reading first preferred. A report of a change in the control of the Southern Pacific company was not confirmed. There were heavy transactions and wide fluctuations in Brooklyn Rapid Transit. The outcome was a small addition to the price. The inquiry for Manhattan was sufficient to advance the stock. The steel stocks were comparatively quiet. The largest dealings were in Federal Steel. which was bought by insiders. An effort to accomplish a break in Sugar Refining was not successful.

Cotton fluctuated within moderate limits, rising at one time owing to higher cables, smaller receipts at the Atlantic ports than expected, a falling off in the "sight" figures for the week of about 25,000 hales as compared with estimates (arly in the week, heavy rains in the Atlantic and Gulf States, covering of shorts and some buying for a turn on the theory that after the recent sever decline a raily was due. But before the close the early improvement was lost, partly owing to a large Houston estimate for tomorrow, but largely because of a falling off in the demand, the generality of operators prefring to await further developments. The movement thus fat this season is 114,000 bales larger than for a like period last season, and is only about 4,000 bales below that of the corresponding period in 1897, when the yield turned out to be 11,200,000 bales.
